1. INTRODUCTION

The supplied documentation including Procedures, Spreadsheets and Methods submitted) of Azuresky (Pty) Ltd. was reviewed against the requirements of ISO 17034 and ISO/IEC 17043 and SANAS and ILAC/IAF requirements.

2. GENERAL COMMENTS

Please note that for the initial assessment sufficient records generated by the system must be available to demonstrate implementation of the system to give confidence that the conformity assessment body (CAB) can consistently ensure the quality of its results.

Quality documentation is meant to be of benefit to a conformity assessment body (CAB). The Policies set by management give the overall direction of the CAB. The Objectives are always in line with the policies, usually measurable by some means, more specific to areas and may change. The Procedures are the instruction manual defining how the CAB operates to enable it to achieve the set objectives and thus continue moving in the planned direction as defined by the policies.

Although the documentation submitted appeared to be written in accordance with the Standard, it was noted that certain clauses of the Standards have not been documented in the form of a written procedure. The provision of forms and spreadsheets do not constitute or replace documented procedures.

The specific notes made during the evaluation are not necessarily non-compliances, but sometimes areas of lack of clarity that could become obvious during the on-site assessment.

3. RECOMMENDATION

The deviations listed in the attached supporting checklists should be incorporated into the management system manual or relevant procedures, as applicable, after which an initial assessment of the CAB may be arranged. See all comments in Red and Highlighted in Yellow in the Checklists.
